COVERPAGE PERSONALITY

CROWNED WITH GRACE AND CONFIDENCE, JUHI IS THE KIND OF WINNER WHO LEAVES A LASTING IMPRESSION LONG AFTER THE SPOTLIGHT FADES. BEYOND THE CROWN LIES A STORY WORTH HEARING —AND SHE'S READY TO TELL IT... Read On...

The Beginning

1. Tell us about your journey — what inspired you to step into the world of pageantry?

Ans. Ever since I was a little girl, I was fascinated by the grace and confidence of women who owned the stage. Pageantry, for me, was never just about beauty — it was about expression, strength, and purpose. I wanted to challenge myself, to grow, and to use my voice to inspire others. That's what led me to take this leap into the world of pageants.

2. Was winning the FassionX Pageant always a dream, or did it happen unexpectedly?

Ans. It was a beautiful blend of both. I always dreamt of wearing the crown one day, but I never took it for granted. Each round of the competition was a lesson in patience, humility, and perseverance. Winning FassionX Season 2 felt surreal — it was the result of countless small dreams coming together.

3. How did your early life or background shape the person you are today?

Ans. I come from a background that values hard work, kindness, and resilience. My family always taught me that success means staying grounded no matter how high you rise. Those values helped me remain focused and humble throughout my journey.

The Crowned Moment

4. Take us back to the moment your name was announced as the winner — what went through your mind?

Ans. It was pure disbelief at first! I remember my heart racing, my hands trembling, and tears of gratitude filling my eyes. In that moment, I wasn't just thinking about myself — I was thinking of everyone who believed in me and supported me through every step.

5. What does this title — FassionX Pageant Winner — truly mean to you beyond the crown and sash?

Ans. It symbolizes responsibility. Being FassionX Winner isn't just about being admired; it's about inspiring others to embrace their individuality and strength. It's a reminder that beauty shines brightest when it uplifts others.

6. How has your life changed since that unforgettable night?

Ans. My life has become beautifully busier! There are more opportunities, more collaborations, and more people looking up to me. But at the core, I'm still the same Juhi — grounded, grateful, and eager to keep growing.

Fashion, Style & Identity

7. How would you describe your personal sense of style in three words?

Ans. Elegant. Confident. Effortless.

8. What role do you believe fashion plays in expressing one's individuality?

Ans. Fashion is a language without words. It's how we express our moods, our beliefs, and our personalities. True style isn't about trends — it's about authenticity.

9. Who are your biggest fashion influences — designers, icons, or mentors?

Ans. I admire icons like Priyanka Chopra and Zendaya for their versatility and fearlessness. Among designers, I love the creativity of Manish Malhotra and Elie Saab — their designs celebrate femininity and strength so beautifully.

10. What was your favorite outfit or moment during the FassionX competition and why?

Ans. My evening gown round was my favorite — the gown made me feel regal yet comfortable. But more than the outfit, it was the confidence and energy I carried in that moment that made it unforgettable.
Strength, Struggles & Self-Belief

11. Every success story has challenges. What were some hurdles you faced on your way to the crown?

Ans. There were times of self-doubt, physical exhaustion, and balancing commitments. But I learned that challenges shape champions. Every setback became a lesson in patience and faith.

12. How did you stay motivated and confident when things didn't go as planned?

Ans. I reminded myself why I started. I surrounded myself with positivity — my family, mentors, and close friends constantly lifted me up. I also practiced mindfulness and gratitude to stay centered.

13. What's one life lesson you learned from this entire experience that you'll carry forever?

Ans. That self-belief is your strongest accessory. When you truly believe in yourself, even the toughest roads become pathways to success.

Beauty with Purpose

14. Pageants today celebrate purpose as much as poise. What cause or advocacy do you stand for?

Ans. I'm deeply passionate about mental health awareness and women's empowerment. I believe emotional well-being is as vital as physical health, and I want to use my platform to break the stigma surrounding it.

15. How do you plan to use your platform as FassionX Winner to create awareness or change?

Ans. I aim to collaborate with NGOs, schools, and digital campaigns to spread awareness about self-love, confidence, and emotional resilience. Small conversations can lead to big change — and I want to start those conversations.

16. What message would you give to young women who see you as a role model?

Ans. Don't chase perfection — chase purpose. Believe in your uniqueness, because that's your real superpower. The world needs your authentic light.

The Woman Behind the Crown

17. When you're not on stage or in front of cameras, how do you like to spend your time?

Ans. I love reading, spending time with family, exploring new cuisines, and just being in nature. It helps me stay grounded and recharged.

18. What's something people would be surprised to learn about you?

Ans. People often assume I'm always in heels and glam — but I absolutely love spending my downtime in comfy pajamas, watching old movies, or sketching.

19. How do you balance glamour with authenticity in a world that often blurs the two?

Ans. By remembering that glamour fades, but grace lasts forever. Authenticity comes from being real — not perfect. I choose to be genuine, even in a world obsessed with filters.

Q. What's next for you after FassionX — modeling, acting, philanthropy, or perhaps entrepreneurship?

Ans. A mix of all, honestly! I'm exploring modeling and acting projects while continuing my advocacy work. Eventually, I'd love to start something of my own — maybe a foundation that supports young women in pursuing their dreams.

Q. Where do you see yourself five years from now?

Ans. I see myself as a more evolved version of who I am today — leading with purpose, making an impact globally, and hopefully inspiring others to rise with confidence.

Q. What legacy do you hope to leave behind as a FassionX titleholder?

Ans. I want to be remembered as someone who wore the crown with compassion, not just confidence. Someone who used her platform to uplift others and make kindness fashionable again.

Q. Your go-to fashion accessory?

Ans. A classic pair of statement earrings — they instantly elevate any look.

24. A fashion trend you absolutely love — and one you'd never try again?

Love: Power suits! They make me feel unstoppable.

Never again: Overly distressed denim — I've learned "less is more."

Q. One word that defines you right now.

Ans. Empowered.

ARTICLE OF THE MONTH

ANKIT KAPOOR

The United States has decided not to impose any new tariffs on critical minerals under Section 232, choosing instead to secure supplies through bilateral agreements with individual countries. At the same time, the U.S. President has clarified that there is no intention to remove the Chairman of the Federal Reserve, easing fears of a sudden disruption in monetary policy. In the Middle East, Israel and other U.S. allies have urged Washington to avoid any immediate military or aggressive action against Iran, while Iran has postponed the execution of a protester following U.S. diplomatic intervention. Together, these developments have temporarily softened geopolitical and policy-related tensions, leading to profit booking in both precious metals and base metals on COMEX. The ongoing price decline should be seen as normal profit-taking rather than panic selling, as geopolitical risks have not disappeared but merely cooled for the moment. The absence of new tariffs on critical minerals remains a medium-term positive for industrial metals, although traders have locked in gains in the short term. Additionally, reduced uncertainty around the Federal Reserve leadership has brought stability to the U.S. dollar, creating pressure on metals prices. The larger picture remains unchanged—risks have not fully cleared, and market sentiment can still turn sharply on unexpected developments. In short, the current pullback is best viewed as a pause to catch breath, not a trend reversal; the market may appear calm, but it is far from safe. Here are some question and answers which you need to know;

. . . Q1. What are the current gold and silver rates in India?

. . . As of now, gold is trading around ₹1,42,500, after slipping from its recent peak of ₹1,43,590. This mild correction is healthy and expected after a strong vertical move. It shows profit-booking, not trend reversal.

Silver is currently around ₹2,80,000, correcting sharply from its recent high of ₹2,91,406. Compared to gold, silver's correction is deeper which is normal because silver always exaggerates both upside and downside.

Q2. Why are gold and silver prices still structurally strong despite the fall?

The recent slip does not change the bigger picture. Prices remain elevated due to multiple powerful forces working together like Geopolitical tensions between Russia-China-India-USA, trade friction, and fragile global growth keep safe-haven demand alive. Gold continues to be accumulated by central banks as a hedge against currency risk. Central bank bought more than 1000 tons of Gold in the last three consecutive years and expect the same in the last year (Expect data by February 2026). Markets are still pricing in easier fed monetary policy as inflation continues @ 2.7% , positive for non-yielding assets like gold and silver. A relatively weak rupee against USD also keeps domestic prices supported even if global prices cool. So yes, prices corrected, but the foundation is still solid.

Q3. Is this a good time to invest in gold at ₹1,42,500?

Gold at these levels is not cheap, but it is relevant. For long-term investors, Gold remains one of the best hedges against inflation, currency depreciation, and financial shocks. For short-term corrections like the drop from ₹1,43,500 to ₹1,42,500 are normal breathing spaces. So one can avoid lump-sum buying at higher levels but prefer staggered accumulation on dips. In Gold, we have seen more than 170% return in the last 3 years and this pace likely to remain active. Still, Gold rewards patience, not urgency.

Q4. How does silver look compared to gold at ₹2,80,000?

Silver is a different beast altogether because It is both a precious metal and an industrial metal. Silver rallied faster than expected on the robust demand from new age technology and lead to supply deficit. Silver skyrocketed more than 180% in the last 12 months. On the Comex division, silver skyrocketed from $22 to $93 and currently trading around $88. Silver has higher upside potential than gold during economic expansion and now strong demand from solar panels, electronics, and green energy created havoc in the market. Silver is the most volatile commodity and deep corrections test investor patience. Silver suits investors who can handle sharp swings and have medium-to-high risk appetite and for those who are mentally prepared for "roller-coaster rides". You may consider Gold as a stable coin in the era of cryptocurrency.

Q5. What is the future outlook for gold and silver from here?

Gold is expected to remain structurally bullish, but not in a straight line. Expect phases of consolidation and pullbacks before fresh highs. Any meaningful dip should be seen as an opportunity, not a threat. Silver already outperform gold but still silver has more room towards north direction. If industrial demand remains strong, but volatility will stay elevated. Moves will be fast, emotional, and unforgiving for undisciplined traders. Silver breached the psychological level of $50 after 45 years of patience and now trading at the next psychological door step of $100. We expect silver to cross $100 soon if fundamentals remain intact.

Q6. How should investors allocate gold and silver in their portfolio now?

A balanced and sensible approach works best. An investor should have 15–20% of portfolio in precious metals. Majority allocation toward gold for stability and smaller allocation toward silver for growth potential. Allocation should depend on risk tolerance, investment horizon and ability to stay calm during volatility. Remember, gold protects wealth while Silver amplifies returns and emotions.

Rishikesh: Where the River Teaches You to Breathe

Rishikesh is not merely a destination on the map of India; it is a state of mind. Nestled in the foothills of the Himalayas, this sacred town greets visitors with a rare blend of calm and curiosity. The air feels lighter here, as if the mountains themselves are urging you to slow down. From the iconic suspension bridges to the quiet lanes lined with cafés and ashrams, Rishikesh carries a vibe that is both ancient and effortlessly contemporary.

At the heart of Rishikesh flows the Ganges—clear, powerful, and deeply revered. Unlike its course through crowded plains, the river here is pristine, singing its way through stone and forest. Morning aartis glow with lamps and chants, while evenings reflect the golden hush of gratitude and prayer. The Ganges in Rishikesh is not just seen; it is felt—washing over pilgrims and travelers alike with a sense of renewal.

Spirituality is the town's quiet constant. Ashrams dot the riverbanks, offering spaces for meditation, silence, and self-inquiry. Saints, seekers, and everyday visitors coexist in an atmosphere where spiritual practice feels accessible rather than intimidating. Rishikesh does not demand belief; it invites experience. Even those unfamiliar with spiritual traditions find themselves drawn into moments of reflection, simply by being present.

Yoga, perhaps Rishikesh's most global gift, has transformed the town into a magnet for international travelers. Known as the "Yoga Capital of the World," it hosts countless schools offering practices that range from traditional Hatha to modern wellness retreats. Foreigners arrive as students and often leave as storytellers, carrying pieces of Rishikesh back to their own countries. The town thrives on this cultural exchange, where Sanskrit chants blend seamlessly with conversations in many languages.

Beyond its spiritual core, Rishikesh pulses with youthful energy and adventure. Cafés serve organic meals overlooking the river, bookstores invite slow afternoons, and white-water rafting adds a rush of adrenaline to the otherwise meditative setting. Backpackers, solo travelers, and families all find their own rhythm here. This balance between stillness and thrill gives Rishikesh its unmistakable character.

In a world driven by speed and spectacle, Rishikesh offers something quietly radical—space to reconnect. With nature, with purpose, and often with oneself. Tourism here is not about ticking landmarks off a list; it is about transformation. Rishikesh leaves visitors with fewer souvenirs but deeper impressions, reminding them that true travel is not about how far you go, but how deeply you arrive.

HOW TO REACH RISHIKESH FROM DELHI

Reaching Rishikesh from Delhi is convenient and offers multiple options depending on time, budget, and travel preference:

By Road:

Rishikesh is approximately 240–260 km from Delhi and can be reached in 5–7 hours by car, depending on traffic. The most common route is via NH 334 (Delhi–Meerut–Muzaffarnagar–Haridwar–Rishikesh). Private taxis, self-drive cars, and frequent Volvo or luxury buses from Delhi (Kashmere Gate or ISBT Anand Vihar) make road travel the most popular choice.

By Train:

The nearest major railway station is Haridwar Junction, about 25 km from Rishikesh. Several express and superfast trains run daily from New Delhi to Haridwar (travel time: 4–6 hours). From Haridwar, Rishikesh is easily accessible by taxi, auto-rickshaw, or local bus.

By Direct Train (Limited):

Rishikesh Railway Station has limited connectivity. A few passenger and express trains run directly from Delhi, but most travelers still prefer Haridwar for better frequency and comfort.

By Air:

The nearest airport is Jolly Grant Airport, Dehradun, around 20 km from Rishikesh. Daily flights operate from Delhi (approx. 1 hour flight time). From the airport, taxis are readily available to reach Rishikesh in 30–40 minutes.

Overall, road travel and trains via Haridwar are the most economical and widely used options, while flights are ideal for those short on time.

🎵 Beatles Ashram (Chaurasi Kutia)

Although no longer an active spiritual institution, this historic ashram is a must-visit for its story and atmosphere. Famous for The Beatles' meditation retreat in 1968, its graffiti-covered ruins and meditation cells offer a unique bohemian and reflective space. 💎

🧘 Yoga Niketan Ashram & Swami Dayananda Ashram

These are quieter and more traditional ashrams focused on yoga, meditation, Vedanta study, and inner discipline. They provide structured schedules and are great for those looking for extended spiritual retreats with a serious yogic focus. 💎

🌟 Quick Tips for Visiting Ashrams:

Many ashrams offer short stays or long retreats, but it's usually best to book in advance, especially during peak travel or festival seasons.

Respect local customs: modest clothing, early morning schedules, and participation in meditation or yoga sessions.

Some ashrams have structured programs (like teacher training) that require prior registration.

Rahul is a dynamic freelance entrepreneur who brings ideas to life through content creation, graphic designing, and show direction. With a sharp creative instinct and a hands-on approach, he seamlessly blends strategy with execution to deliver impactful results across platforms.

As one of the strongest pillars of FX, Rahul plays a crucial role in managing daily operations and ensuring consistent delivery. His ability to handle multiple responsibilities with confidence and creativity makes him an invaluable asset to the group. Whether it's shaping visual narratives, directing shows, or crafting compelling content, he approaches every task with passion and purpose.

What truly sets Rahul apart is his drive to push boundaries and adapt to challenges. He believes in growing with every project, learning through execution, and elevating the team's collective vision. His commitment, reliability, and creative leadership continue to inspire those around him, making him not just a contributor—but a force that keeps FX moving forward.

Q. Tell us more about your work profile?

Ans. My work profile is a combination of creativity and execution. I handle content creation, graphic designing, and show direction—right from concept development to final output. I enjoy building visual stories that connect with the audience and represent the brand strongly. Along with creative work, I also manage execution planning, team coordination, and daily operations to ensure consistent delivery across platforms.

Q. What's your vision for the next five years? Where do you see yourself and FX heading in terms of growth, scale, and impact?

Ans. In the next five years, my vision is to scale both personally and professionally—by building a stronger creative identity and expanding the impact of FX. I want to grow FX into a more structured, high-performing creative group that delivers bigger productions, stronger content IPs, and premium brand collaborations. My goal is to keep learning, upgrading my skills, and leading projects that create value, recognition, and long-term growth.

Q. According to you what will drive more people who are just coming into your work field?

Ans. What will drive newcomers in this field is skill + consistency + mindset. Creativity is important, but execution is what makes people successful. The ones who keep learning, practice daily, accept feedback, and stay consistent will grow faster. Also, having discipline, professionalism, communication skills, and the ability to adapt to trends is very important in content, design, and production work.

Q. What has been your biggest learning so far while working with FX?

Ans. My biggest learning with FX has been that teamwork and consistency create real results. Here I learned how important it is to manage responsibilities, timelines, and quality together. Working with FX has improved my leadership mindset, creative thinking, and execution ability. It taught me that growth comes from doing, learning from mistakes, and continuously improving with every project.

Q. How do you manage creativity along with daily operations, deadlines, and pressure—without compromising quality?

Ans. I manage it through planning and discipline. I always prioritize tasks, break the work into small actionable steps, and ensure clear communication with the team. Creativity needs time, but deadlines also matter—so I balance both by maintaining workflow, staying focused, and being solution-oriented. Pressure becomes manageable when you stay organized and committed to quality.
